UIBM Student Mobility Guide

Apply for a semester abroad, with expenses covered!

STEP 1: Be prepared for the mobility calls announced by the university

Start by checking which universities UIBM has Erasmus+ agreements with.
You can do this by:

- Visiting the UIBM website
- Talking to the International Relations Coordinator (located on the first floor), or email them : international@umib.net
- Meeting with UIBM professors to express your interest in mobility opportunities

STEP 2: Choose Your Program

Once you identify an eligible university, explore the programs and classes it offers.

Visit the host university's website and check:

- Course content and academic calendar
- Duration of the semester

- Language of instruction (Make sure which courses are offered in English)

STEP 3: Prepare Your Application

To apply through your university, you'll usually need: (It depends on the call)

- CV (Curriculum Vitae)
- Transcript of Records
- English language certificate
- Motivation Letter
- Learning Agreement (a list of courses you'll take abroad, to be approved by your home and host university)

After submitting these, you'll become an Erasmus candidate.

*If you do not have English language certificate, You may be invited by the International Relation Office for an English language test .

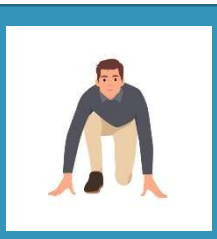
STEP 4: Get Ready to Go!



If selected, you'll be contacted by a coordinator in the host university who will let you know:

- A grant agreement for your stipend (to help with living costs)
- A travel allowance (typically covers one round-trip flight)

Now's the time to:

- Book your flights
- Look for housing (dorms are often the best option)
- Start budgeting based on the Erasmus+ financial support

STEP 5: Settle In and Explore

Welcome to your new city! Once you arrive:

- Explore your neighborhood and campus
- Find local transport stations

- Meet your student mentor (a local student who helps incoming Erasmus students)
- Meet your program coordinator (they'll assist with residence permits, local rules, bank accounts, reports (grades) you'll have to send at the end of the program, etc.)

Once everything's in place, you're ready to enjoy a life-changing experience filled with learning, travel, and new friendships.

Good luck!

After you finish your mobility, contact your International Relation Office.

Do not forget to share your life-changing experience.
